A homemade brand that manifests itself in living and creating in the moment.

The work and development of the brand will always and forever be based on the surroundings of the KEMBER in process.

A homemade brand that manifests itself in living and creating in the moment.
Always and forever based on the KEMBER in process.

kember is my brand. and this is my statement for my brand. a kember is a person in this case me but my brand can broaden  out to more poeple meaning more members meaning more kembers. What im trying to state is that the kember" in process is the core of this brand meaning this brand can become and be anything because being a kember mean being creative and being yourself. being your own creative. So leaving the interpretation out or like leaving it open what kember brand is, one moment it can be more graphic deisgn based the other moment its more film the other moment its super into bike. Because thats what the kember likes. does this make sense? and what do I change in the statement that it can sound more like this. and clear.
